street, they were terminated anyway, and then how did we go about addressing all of those individuals and finding services for them. And in cooperation with Community Alliance, Catholic Charities and a number of other groups, got together and have provided some temporary housing, in some cases, for these individuals. That's that intermediate care that we have right there. It's really a residential type service.

SENATOR BROMM: So under this amendment is this...part of this $6,500,000 going to be disbursed by Health and Human Services for this type of thing, including intermediate level services, and that will be distributed to the regions, under the next sentence, the six mental health regions? Is that correct?

SENATOR JENSEN: That is correct. This will be funneled through the regions.

SENATOR BROMM: Okay, then...and while we're on that, it's distributed proportionately by population. Now here's where we get into a problem. Theoretically, that is absolutely the right way to do it, but if I've got 100,000 people over here that it costs me $10 a person to serve, and I've got 50,000 people over here that it costs me $20 a person to serve, if I distribute the money totally by population...

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR BROMM: ...rather than taking into consideration the cost, how am I going to serve these 50,000 people?

SENATOR JENSEN: Senator, you make a good point. There should be some credence to both, not only the population but the areas that need service. I think that we can accommodate that and be glad to look in that area...

SENATOR BROMM: Yeah, that...

SENATOR JENSEN: ...between...

SENATOR BROMM: ...that is...thank you, and that's an area of concern. The next sentence talks about services under this
